RUSS AGENT BRINGS BACK TRUE STORY OF SAGHALIN

Declares Japanese Sought Pretext To Seize Famous Island

WAS ON GROUND

Describes Russian Efforts To Keep Peace, And Nipponese Intrigue

TOKIO TO BLAME

Telegrams Insisting That Laws Were Observed Are All Ignored

The following statement, prepared by a member of the local staff of the Russia (Soviet) News Agency, describes the seizure of the island of Saghalien by the Japanese, viewed through Russian eyes.

The writer, G—— Z——, was an attache of the Russian government at Saghalien when the Japanese first made their appearance, and vouches for the truth of the statement.

In the beginning of May a communique was sent by the Pacific Telegraph Agency to the effect that, in the post of Alexandrovsk (Saghalien), the administrative power was returned to the Zemstvo, which is trying to re-establish order; and that the Japanese Army has opened a mercy hospital there.

To those who know how Japan was trying, since the fall of Kolchak, to find a pretext for occupation of the northern (Russian) part of the island, it was clear from this telegram that occupation had practically started.

The Russian Government on the island was overthrown and a Japanese army was set ashore. Of course, not for the purpose of establishing a mercy hospital there.

THE PRETEXT FOUND

Had the Japanese Military Party found the desired pretext for occupation? It thinks it had. Nikolaievsk is it. In order to rescue the remainder of their nationals, they say, and to surround the Partisans, an army was sent by Japan to Saghalien, which is on the other side of the Tartar Strait.

The general public does not know that, even before the events in Nikolaievsk took place, the Japanese War-Office was trying its best to get hold of this island.

When the Kolchak Government was overthrown in Western Siberia the representatives of that Government on Saghalien were arrested by the people, and a democratic Zemstvo government was established.

WERE ICE-BOUND

This was in the middle of January. Until navigation would start—and this could not be expected until the end of April—there could be no communication with Vladivostok or with any other point on the mainland.

On the other hand, Japan's border line is only twenty miles away from the main city of the island, Alexandrovsk.

The Russian population of Saghalien, which counts 8,000, understood very well that peaceful relations with Japan must be maintained at any cost; because otherwise occupation could have taken place, since there is almost no Russian army on the island.

At that time there was a Russian garrison at Alexandrovsk consisting of 160 men, armed only with rifles, and with an insufficient number of cartridges.

PEOPLE UNDERSTOOD

Understanding the situation, the people were accordingly behaving themselves so that there should be no reason for the forty-odd Japanese families living on the Russian part of Saghalien to claim that they suffered any hardships from the Russians.

And the Japanese residents really could not claim it.

But far away from Alexandrovsk—in Tokio, Yokohama and other Japanese cities—the press got "official news" from the Japanese military headquarters that there were great disturbances on the Russian island Saghalien—in Alexandrovsk, where a big number of Japanese were "harmed" by the revolu-

French President Ill; May Be Compelled To Resign

(Reuter's Wireless Service)

Paris, July 13.—M. Deschanel has written to the Minister of War, regretting that his health will not permit him to attend the National Fete tomorrow. To-night's papers freely suggest the advisability of handling the Presidential situation.

MINISTER PRESIDES

Paris, July 15.—At the review at Vincennes yesterday in celebration of July 14, the Minister for War presented colors to the African regiments stationed in France.

In the afternoon M. Andre Lefevre, the War Minister, and Marshal Petain were received by the President at Rambouillet.

LLOYD-TRESTINO SHIPS RETURNED

Important British Ruling On On Question Of Seized Fleet

(Reuter's Service)

Shanghai, July 16.—An important development is reported in connection with the final attribution of the former Austrian Lloyd vessels, a matter in which China is specially interested.

The Far Eastern representative of the Lloyd Triestino Company has communicated the following to Reuter:

"The general manager of the Lloyd Triestino Company at Trieste reports that the British Government has recognised the Italian nationality of the Lloyd Triestino Company and has confirmed the decisions of the prize courts at Alexandria and Aden which in August, 1914 ordered the detention but the return on the conclusion of peace of the Austrian Lloyd steamers Koerber and Franz Ferdinand respectively. These vessels will accordingly be restored to the Lloyd Triestino Company in due course."

THREE CLASSES

The Austrian Lloyd fleet at the conclusion of the armistice was divisible into three categories: (1) vessels still operated by Austria; (2) vessels in the hands of the Allies and (3) vessels under construction.

Of these today the first are being operated by the Lloyd Triestino Co., under the international flag, on behalf of the Italian Government, pending Italy's ratification of the Treaty of St. Germain, whereafter they will sail under the Italian flag. The third were registered and launched and are being sailed under the Italian flag.

THESE AFFECTED

As regards (2) the British Government's decision is the first step on the part of any of the Allies, towards restoring the ex-Austrian Lloyd steamers held by them to the present Italian company.

China seized three Austrian-Lloyd vessels in August, 1917, namely the Bohemia (Hwah Ping), Silesia (Hwah Yih) and China (Hwah Yah). The argument advanced, inter alia, on the Chinese side that China could not be expected to return these ships to Italy, while Great Britain still retained those which she (Great Britain) had confiscated would appear to be invalidated by the British Government's decision reported above.

AMERICAN WHO WAS BELIEVED DEAD, IS FOUND

R. F. Harde Turns Up In Washington After His Disappearance

Mystery surrounding the disappearance here on March 16 of Robert T. Harde, an American who was living at the Kalee Hotel, was cleared yesterday when the American Consulate-General notified the police that the man had arrived safely at Washington. Letters that were received a few days after the man's disappearance indicated that he might have committed suicide or met with foul play.

Detective Sergeant J. J. Kilkenney was assigned to the case and made a thorough investigation, but was unable to find any trace of the body, which the letters said would be found about two miles outside the Settlement alongside the railway. The investigator for the criminal department decided that the letters were a hoax and his opinion was confirmed by the report from Washington.

Harde, who was a young man, slightly over 20 years of age, had served with the A. E. F. and was wounded in the war. He worked for a time at Anhwei and then came to Shanghai. Then he disappeared on March 16.

No reason has as yet been assigned for his disappearance, but it was rumored yesterday that financial difficulties might have had a bearing on the case.

Steamer Is Damaged In Ichang Gorges

Information was received to Shanghai yesterday to the effect that the steamer Loong Mow struck a cliff in the Ichang Gorges, about 15 miles above Ichang, doing considerable damage to her No. 1 hold. Carson Demands Protection For Ulster Against Sinn Feiners

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 13.—The Orange demonstrations passed off yesterday without disorder.

Sir Edward Carson, in the course of a speech at Belfast declared that, if the Government were unable to deal with the Sinn Feiners, somebody else should do so and that, if the Government were unable to protect Ulster against Sinn Fein, Ulster should take the matter into her own hands and reorganise the Volunteers, whatever might be the consequences.

TWO ARE KILLED

A police motor-car was ambushed today between Cloghane and Dingle (County Kerry). Two constables were shot dead and a district inspector and the driver of the car dangerously wounded.

The Sinn Fein finance department, announcing the impending closing of the Sinn Fein Loan, says that £295,000 has been subscribed to date.

PRO-IRISH STRIKE

London, July 14.—The Trade Union Congress yesterday passed a resolution in favor of a general strike to compel the withdrawal of troops from Ireland.

The Irish Office today issued a statement emphasising that the sole purpose of the troops in Ireland is to assist the civil power to maintain law and order and defend Ireland. The troops are in no way an army of occupation nor has military law been proclaimed.

TROOPS EFFECTIVE

The mere presence of troops has been found to act as a check on the campaign of outrage. It has been abundantly proved, the statement proceeds, that responsible Irish opinion welcomes the intervention of armed forces.

It is impossible, concludes the statement, to withdraw the troops and leave the law-abiding majority and peaceful agents of civil government at the mercy of the forces of disorder.

TRADES IN CAUCUS

London, July 13.—The special Trade Union Congress met at the Central Hall Westminster today. Mr. J. H. Thomas, Secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen, presiding.

The National Union of Railwaymen submitted a motion (1) declaring that the state of affairs in Ireland was due to non-recognition of Irish claims and also to the failure of the British Government to deal with those who defied law and order and supported open rebellion and whose example had been followed by others and (2) calling for a truce between all parties and the Government forthwith, the opening of an Irish parliament with full Dominion powers, and adequate protection of minorities.

Lithuania Reported To Be Treating With Soviet And Mobilising

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 14.—In the House of Commons today, replying to Mr. Asquith, Mr. Bonar Law read the telegram sent by the British Government to the Soviet Government on July 11, proposing an immediate Russo-Polish armistice, whereby the Polish Armies should be immediately withdrawn to the Eastern boundary of Poland, provisionally laid down by the Peace Conference last year; and, as soon as possible after the Polish withdrawal, representatives of Soviet Russia, Poland, Lithuania, Latvia and Finland should assemble in London, under the auspices of the Peace Conference, with the object of negotiating final peace between Russia and its neutral States.

Representatives from Eastern Galicia would also be invited to the conference.

Great Britain would not place any restrictions on the representatives of Russia at the conference; provided that they undertook, while in Great Britain, not to interfere in the politics or the internal affairs of the British Empire or to indulge in propaganda.

SIMULTANEOUS TRUCE

The British government also proposed a simultaneous armistice between the Soviet forces and General Wrangel, on the [illegible] that General Wrangel should immediately retire [illegible] during the armistice, and that General Wrangel should be invited to London to discuss the future of his troops and refugees, but should not be a member of the conference.

The British Government bound itself not to assist Poland for any purpose hostile to Russia, and to take no action itself hostile to Russia.

It was also bound, under the covenant of the League of Nations, to defend the integrity of Poland within certain frontiers.

TO ASSIST POLAND

If, therefore, the Soviet Government, despite its repeated declarations, would not be content with the withdrawal of the Polish Armies from Russia, on condition of an armistice, but showed an intention to take action hostile to Poland, in Poland's own territory, the British Government and its Peking, July 15, (midnight).—Chihli circles state that Anfu troops attacked General Wu Pei-fu south of Liuliho on Wednesday but were defeated, sustaining 600 casualties.

This morning fighting was resumed. A brigade of the 13th Frontier division was outflanked and surrendered: the fate of the commander is not known.

A report from the same sources declares that two brigades of General Feng Kuo-chang's troops have surrendered to the Chihli troops.

The Tuchun of Shantung General Tien Chung-yu, is reported to have declared neutrality but promised to cooperate with the Chihli [illegible] Liang moves against the Chihli [illegible]

Peking, July 16.—The issue of the [illegible] following hostilities, was quickly followed by the declaration of martial law in Peking and by the sound of artillery fire on the Western front consequently Marshal Tuan Chi-jui is today being charged with breaking his word to the President that he would prevent his forces attacking, if the mandate were issued.

Prominent Chinese, however, even those hostile to Marshal Tuan Chi-jui, do not believe that he is responsible either for the proclamation of martial law or for the opening of hostilities.

Generals Tuan Chi-kwei and Hsu Shu-tseng are believed to have acted on their own initiative with a view to preventing a compromise, which would only be possible, if General Hsu Shu-tseng's former command were definitely sacrificed.

PEKING HEARS FIRING

There was desultory gun-fire throughout the night and firing was again heard this morning. It is not believed that there has been any heavy fighting and no casualties have been brought back from the front.

The International Press Club, however, the Chinese members of which are almost entirely members of the Anfu Party, issued a circular this afternoon, stating that early this morning the Chihli Army along the Peking-Hankow Railway attacked from Chochow, the result of the fighting being that the Chihli forces were defeated and the Frontier troops occupied the former's second line of defense at Kaopatien at nine o'clock. This report up to the present can not be confirmed from any sources.

MILITARY POSITIONS

The position yesterday was as follows: The 1st Frontier Division was in position between Chochow and Liuknochao, the 3rd Frontier Division on the left and in the rear at Kuanhsien, the 15th Division on the right and in the rear of the First Division across the Mentoukou branch of the railway line, the 13th Division still at Haitien and the 9th Division at Nanyuan.

General Wu Pei-fu's First and Third Chihli Mixed brigades were facing the Frontier forces beyond Chochow with other bodies of troops along the line between Chochow and Paotingfu. Any fighting that took place would thus have been between the First Frontier Division and the two Chihli Mixed Brigades.

WILL HASTEN END

While the Legations do not believe that any serious fighting has occurred, they point out that a clash of any kind will either hasten or demolish the hitherto resultless efforts at compromise, which have recently marked the policy of the Anfu Club.

SHANTUNG SEVERS ALLEGIANCE WITH PEKING IS REPORT

According to the Chung Foo News Agency, Shantung has declared independence and certain other provinces are said to be about to take similar action.

Marshal Tuan has ordered Ma Liang, Military Commissioner of Tsinanfu, to keep his forces at Tehchow, where he has re-captured the arsenal from General Shan Teh-chuan, and not to move Northward for the present.

FILE COROLLARY

London, July 14.—The League of Nations has published a communication from the governments of Great Britain and Japan dated Spa, July 8, signed by Viscount Chinda (Japanese Ambassador to the Court of St. James) and Lord Curzon (British Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs) stating that the governments of Great Britain and Japan have concluded that the Anglo-Japanese agreement of July 13, 1911, though harmonising with the spirit of the Covenant of the League of Nations, is not entirely consistent with the letter of that Covenant, which both governments earnestly desire to respect.

MUST CONFORM

They accordingly jointly inform the League that they recognise the principle that if the said agreement be continued after July, 1921, it must be in a form which is not inconsistent with that Covenant.

Each party shall undertake to refrain from military action or propaganda in Asia which the British Government regard as a fundamental condition preliminary to any trading agreement. The British proposals are tantamount to a general armistice. All British civilians in Russia shall be released.

SOVIET LIABILITY

The Soviet, in return for a corresponding undertaking by Great Britain, shall recognise liability for compensation of private citizens for services rendered to the Soviet. Great Britain desires to leave the final determination of claims to future mutual settlement, but considers it necessary that the Soviet shall make a declaration on this point in order to give the necessary confidence to Western merchants and manufacturers.

Peking, July 15, 4:20 p.m. (delayed in transmission).—Fighting commenced this morning south of Peking on the Kinhan Railway. Heavy continuous artillery fire has been heard since early morning. Anfu circles claim victory. Relief stations have been established at the depot waiting for the wounded to arrive. It is believed that fighting will shortly break out between Tientsin and Peking as Chi-jui is sending reinforcements. It is understood that the responsibility for the outbreak of hostilities lies with Tuan.

A later telegram dated Peking July 15, 8 p.m. says:

A second attack was reported this afternoon. Tuan's men have advanced nearly to Kaopeitien owing to their superiority in artillery.

Chang Tso-lin has sent a strong telegram to the President informing him that he is coming to Peking with his forces to protect the capital and the President. Russ Agent Brings Back True Story Of Saghalin tionaries and life and property of many Japanese were lost.

DID NOT COMPLAIN

At this very time the Japanese citizens in Alexandrovsk were enjoying full rights and liberty. The Japanese merchants, for instance, were not restricted in buying furs (the rare sable) and they were even helping the Russian merchants and speculators by hiding the latters' goods from Government registration, telling the officials that these goods belonged to them and hence must not undergo registration, knowing that this was the stand of the local Russian Government, because of its desire to avoid any collision with Japanese interests.

When rumors about such propaganda in Japan reached Saghalien the Russian population became alarmed, and a Government representative asked a prominent Japanese merchant in Alexandrovsk, Mr. Takamura, to send a telegram to the governor of the Southern (Japanese) part of Saghalien, in the city of Taihara, describing the real situation on the Russian part of the island.

TAKAMURA'S TELEGRAM

Mr. Takamura sent the telegram telling the Governor at Taihara that peace and order were not disturbed during nor since the Kolchak overthrow, and that the Japanese residents were not in any danger.

There was no answer to this telegram—neither was there any request regarding the safety of Japanese life and property, although this could have been done easily since telegraph communication existed between Alexandrovsk and Taihara.

However, news about disorders and mob actions on the part of Russians in Saghalien were persistently spread by the Japanese press during January and February.

HAD PREMONITIONS

The Russian population felt that something was being prepared by Japan, but could not exactly imagine what it was. At last on February 21, about three o'clock in the afternoon, a telephone call to the executive committee of the Zemstvo, from a lighthouse about two miles south of Alexandrovsk stated that a Japanese warship and a destroyer were approaching the city, being then about 30 miles southwest from the island. This message caused a great panic among the population.

Just as in all parts of Siberia, the population at Saghalien was expecting that, with the arrival of Japanese troops, an overthrow of the democratic government would take place, the former Kolchak representatives would be released and put into power, which would have meant not only restoration, but also revenge upon the great majority of the Russian people.

PEOPLE PANIC-STRICKEN

This opinion was so strong with the people that it was no easy task to the Zemstvo Government to calm them, maintain order and watch that no provocation should take place to serve as a pretext for a landing at Alexandrovsk.

At this time of the year ice is floating in the Tartar Strait, while, close at the shore, ice hills stand untouched. It is almost impossible to reach the shore in a boat or even on a destroyer. This is why it took two days before a group of eleven men (4 officers, one interpreter and six sailors) from the warship Mikasa landed in Alexandrovsk, on February 23.

During two days from the 21st to the 23rd, the local Zemstvo Government was not sure whether the Japanese would start occupation at once or would investigate the general situation, and, finding that there was no harm inflicted upon the Japanese life and property, would leave the island. The latter was the most possible outcome, because there was no visible reason at that time for a landing.

ADVISED THE WORLD

Nevertheless, the Zemstvo Government did its best to inform Vladivostok, Irkutsk, Moscow and even America that a Japanese warship and a destroyer were approaching Alexandrovsk.

At the same time a message of protest was sent to the Japanese Governor at Taihara, in which it was pointed out that there was no reason for sending warships to the Russian coast, since peace and order were maintained; and that great excitement was caused amongst the people by the appearance of the Japanese warships.

The Russian Government was insisting upon the recalling of the warships from North Saghalien.

But no answer was received to that telegram from the Japanese Governor. It is a matter of fact, that while the Japanese authorities were looking for information about Saghalien from every possible source, they never took the information directly in Saghalien, which is so close to them, and where the Japanese residents would furnish them with all the information they wanted.

NO ATTENTION PAID

On the contrary, when the Japanese semi-official representatives in Alexandrovsk, Mr. Takamura, sent a telegram to the Japanese Governor, no attention was paid to it.

This became still more obvious when the delegation of officers and interpreters from the warship Mikasa handed a paper to the three members of the Zemstvo executive committee (who met the Japanese delegation) on which occasion it was said that the delegation was sent by the commander of the ship to find out whether peace and order were maintained in Saghalien.

When the Zemstvo representatives answered they said that, during the delegation's stay in Alexandrovsk it surely found out everything about the conditions, since the city is very small and there are only 40 Japanese families whom they have to care about.

JAP WAS THERE

At this meeting was also present Mr. Takamura, who, since 1905, has been living in Alexandrovsk as a merchant, and also as semi-official representative of the government.

He corroborated all the statements made by the Zemstvo representatives about the safety and liberty of the entire population on the Russian part of the island during and since the overthrow of the Kolchak government.

Regardless of this, the Japanese officers could not promise that they would leave the Russian coast, but they insisted on printing a notice from their commander to the population, where he explained the cause of arrival of his ship at the Russian shore, again referring to rumors in Japan; and asked the people not to be disturbed, since Japan was "now friendly towards Russia," and did not intend any territorial occupation.

COULD NOT PROMISE

Although the Russian representatives told the delegation that such methods would not even slightly affect the people and that the only way to prove the sincerity of the proclaimed statement was to leave the island, no distinct promise could be obtained that the Mikasa would return whence it came. A few days later the Mikasa went southwards. This was due to the floating ice.

With the departure of the warship, which, as became known afterwards, went to Otaru (at Hokkaido Island), within a few days reach of Alexandrovsk, the mention of a "sound" pretext for occupation continued to be the business of the Japanese military party. Some of the Japanese firms of the mine industry interested in the official occupation of the island were helping the militarists.

OIL DISCOVERED

On the Eastern shore of the Russian Saghalien oil was discovered at Chujevo. The Japanese landed there a few hundred workmen last summer (during the Kolchak regime) without even taking the trouble to ask permission from the Russian government mining engineer, Mr. Olshevsky, who as a mine expert, was given full industrial authority on the island by the Tsar's government and was confirmed in that post by Kerensky, and afterward by the Soviet and still later by Kolchak.

Even Russian mining firms could not undertake any researches on the island without Olshevsky's permission, which meant the Russian government's permission. The Japanese, however, considered it unnecessary to ask permission from the Russian authorities, but began last summer exploration work. They dug wells and oil was being gradually found. Then last Fall a wireless station at this place, which is now known in Japan as the kerosene lake region, was established, also without any agreement with the Russian authorities or even without letting the latter know about it.

JAP ENGINEERS

It is worth while mentioning in order to show Japan's methods of occupation that before this took place a few hundred Japanese engineers were sent to Saghalien for "scientific purposes." During last summer they all came to study the "flora and fauna of the island," and as a result of this the Japanese mining firms obtained thorough knowledge of the richness of the island.

The Kolchak debacle in Siberia caused much uneasiness to the Japanese firms which had invested much money in the oil business at the Kerosene lake. They were not sure that the new government would bear the exploitation of the Russian natural resources by Japanese capitalists who took the right to do it.

RUMORS OF OIL

Since the middle of February of this year rumors were being spread along the Eastern coast where the oil wells are located that Bolsheviki on the Western coast in Alexandrovsk let out a few hundred criminals from the Alexandrovsk prisons and together with them were marching eastwards for the purpose of capturing the Japanese workmen at Cholevo.

This had its effect. The Japanese workmen who heard so much about the desperate and cruel Bolshevism imagined themselves in a very dangerous way and started to rush southward to the Japanese border.

They were scared by the tales about the criminals and Bolsheviki. This was in the middle of February, the weather was very cold at that time in Saghalien and as a result more than a hundred workmen were frozen to death and a big number had to go to hospital after they reached the Japanese border line.

DID NOT ASSIST

There is no doubt that if the management of the works wished to stop the workmen from running away they easily could have done it. Because the superintendent of the works was living in Alexandrovsk before and he knew that firstly there were not over 150 men in the prisons of Alexandrovsk; secondly that there were no Bolsheviki on the island, and thirdly that it is impossible to reach the Eastern coast during winter months.

However, the workmen were not only not stopped but on the contrary were instigated to run.

STARTED CANARD

After this really grave event a campaign was started that the Japanese were in danger on Saghalien and a detachment was necessary to protect the Japanese interests. The Japanese capitalists whose interests concerned Saghalien are found not only in the East end but also on the Western coast. The coal mines at Horned Cape some 15 miles south of Alexandrovsk which nominally belong to the Russian firm of Stonheev is practically under the management of a Japanese firm.

Besides that, a number of Japanese companies established fisheries on both coasts of the Russian island during Kolchak's rule without obtaining any permission from the Russian authorities.

FIRMS FRIGHTENED

These companies were quite scared when the fall of Kolchak was announced. There was also a tendency among Japanese firms to get out the Russian Saghalien wood which thickly covers the island.

During last winter furs, mainly sables, were exported from Saghalien to a sum of approximately two million American dollars.

It was understood that the Japs would not give up the idea of holding the island for themselves but a cunning method in achieving this end was fixed on. When on May 23 the Japanese military official announcement was made that troops should stop in Alexandrovsk it was evident that official occupation had started, because for strategic purposes there is absolutely no use putting soldiers on the island. At present the island is under complete and strong control of Japan which has started already to exploit its the natural resources.

From all this the reader can easily see that the preparations for the occupation of Saghalien were made long ago before the formal pretext—the Nikolaievsk events—took place. In the near future it will probably be revealed that the Nikolaievsk events were the result of the same cause as the frozen Japanese workmen on the Eastern shore of Saghalien.

Linen Destroyed As Laundry Burns

In spite of the raging of the typhoon, the Hongkew division of the fire brigade managed to control a fire which broke out shortly after midnight on Thursday, and partially destroyed a laundry off North Szechuen Road Extension.

A number of local hotels and tea-rooms had their linen destroyed at the fire.

Anfu Air Command Injured As Machine Crashes To Ground

While scouting over the front line, Commander Ching Kuo-yung of the Air Squadron of the Punitive Army, dashed his machine to the ground, receiving minor injuries. His airplane was a total wreck.

It is reported that Major-General Mouhan K. Tinn, director of the Department of Aeronautics, has been placed under guard by the Anfuites. Twenty students of the Nanyuan Aviation School, of which General Tinn is also director, deserted the institution, it will be remembered, when Tuan ordered them to service against the Chihli Army.

FIVE YEARS IS PENALTY FIXED IN ARSON CASE

French Court Hears Trial Of Clerk Who Sought To Burn Records

Five years imprisonment was the sentence imposed yesterday by the French Mixed Court on a Chinese clerk who was found guilty of setting fire to his desk in the establishment on Nanking Road of Grenard Betines and Company, chemists.

The case was first called before Italian Assessor Ros, in the International Mixed Court, and was turned over to British Assessor Blackburn when Mr. Ros departed for a vacation. Mr. Ros had decided that the International Court had jurisdiction but Mr. Blackburn disagreed and sent the case to the French authorities.

It was shown that the clerk was short some $800 in his accounts with the firm and that he had committed arson in an attempt to conceal his offense. Detective Sergeant MacDermott was assigned to the case and gathered evidence that was convincing when it was presented to the French magistrate yesterday.

British Colonies Invited To Help Health Campaign

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 14.—The Lord Mayor of London appealing on behalf of the Imperial War Relief fund to combat disease and distress in war-stricken areas of Europe and Asia, that £1,000,000 is required immediately.

He points out that "for the first time India, the Dominions and other possessions of the Crown beyond the seas are being invited to make common cause with the mother country in an unselfish campaign for the betterment of humanity."

He emphasised that a chance is now presented "to make an arresting demonstration in the name of our united British peoples for the solace and healing of nations."

American Mails Leave And Arrive

Colombia And Korea Maru Sail Today, Empress Of Asia Due In Tonight

Outbound mail for America, Canada and Europe is being despatched today on two steamers, the Korea Maru of the T.K.K. and the Colombia of the Pacific Mail, and an incoming mail will arrive tonight on the Empress of Asia of the Canadian Pacific Ocean Services.

The Korea Maru and Colombia both are bound for San Francisco by way of Japan ports and Honolulu and both are due to arrive at the California port the same day, August 12.

The Empress of Asia has been delayed and will not arrive off Woosung until about 11 o'clock tonight. The tender from the vessel with incoming passengers is expected to arrive at the Municipal Jetty about 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning. The outbound tender with passengers and mails will leave the Jetty at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Word was received yesterday at the Shanghai office of the China Mail that the company's liner Nanking sailed from San Francisco July 14 and is due to arrive at this port via Honolulu and Japan ports about August 9.

Chauffeur Escapes With $500 Penalty Instead Of Prison

Fine of $500 was imposed yesterday by the Mixed Court on a chauffeur who by reckless driving caused the death of a youth on Thibet Road recently. The driver had been sentenced to three months imprisonment but it was found, on appeal, that a jail sentence would not hold under the form of the charge and the fine was substituted.

British Assessor Blackburn and Magistrate Lu sat in the case. The assessor said that he felt that a fine of $500 would be hopelessly inadequate in such a case. A rehearing was denied and it was intimated that a charge of murder might be made.

California Glee Club Arrives Today

THE FAMOUS JAZZ BAND

Bringing with them the newly-won laurels acquired in Manila and Hongkong, the University of California Glee Club, twenty-one strong, will arrive in Shanghai tonight on the Korea Maru. They will open a five-day engagement at the Olympic Theater tomorrow night, changing their program completely Tuesday and Thursday.

They will not wait until night before getting into action, however, for their ball team is scheduled to mix things with the Shanghai Club tomorrow afternoon if the weather is propitious.

The outstanding feature of the organisation is said to be the celebrated Glee Club Jazz band.

Jazz music is knocking on the door of art, according to Paul McCoy, leader of the jazz band.

In an effort to make jazz music conform more closely to the laws of harmony, leader McCoy has striven to eliminate the mere noise and discord that was considered necessary to a jazz orchestra until a few months ago. To this end, the drums and banjos are slid more to background. In fact, these instruments have been losing in prominence in all American jazz orchestras lately.

An example of the U.C. orchestra's effort to make jazz more rational is found in their rendition of "Venetian Moon," which has been acclaimed throughout the Far East. Here the "rhythm" instruments are lost in the harmony of the violin, saxaphone and cornet.

In order to show that they can play the wildest variety of syncopation, although it is fast going by the board, the college musicians include in their repertoire some late numbers of the wild, long-haired variety, the wildest being "Lola" and "Blues My Naughty Sweetie Gave to Me."

Lawn Bowls

The Junior Golf Club will play Lawn Bowls against Yangtszepoo on Sunday afternoon at Hongkew Park at 4 p.m. The team selected to represent Yangtszepoo is as follows:

Vladivostok, July 15.—The delegates of the Amur Government are on their way to Vladivostok to discuss the formation of a united Far Eastern Republic. General Semenoff agrees to join the conference, only if it is held in Harbin, but the Vladivostok Government has replied that the holding of the conference at Vladivostok is the only plan acceptable.

REIGN OF TERROR

The situation around Iman is unsettled. As a result of the scarcity of armed Russian militia-men, the counter revolutionaries are terrorising the districts, arresting and murdering the inhabitants.

A telegram from Nikolsk states that the Japanese are preparing barracks in anticipation of the evacuation of the Japanese troops from the Zabaikal, which will commence immediately.

allies would feel bound to assist Poland to defend her existence with all means at their disposal.

The Polish Government had declared its willingness to make peace with Soviet Russia and negotiate an armistice on the above basis, as soon as it should be informed that the Soviet Government had also agreed.

The British Government, therefore, stated that it would be glad of a definite reply within a week.

In reply to another question by Mr. Asquith, Mr. Bonar Law said that the message had been sent to Moscow by wireless with the knowledge and approval of the Allies.

ALLIES ALL AGREE

Paris, July 13.—The Spa correspondent of the Petit Parisien states that one of the conditions under which the Allies have agreed to the restoration of peace between Poland and Soviet Russia is that Poland shall renounce all Imperialist policy and unconditionally refer all disputed questions to the Supreme Council.

The line to which Poland must withdraw her troops runs from Rovno and Brest-Litovsk to a point fifty kilometres south of Przemysl.

The Bolsheviks will be allowed to advance as far as a line fifty kilometers from the Polish front.

OFFICIAL BULLETIN

Warsaw, July 14.—The following communique is issued by the Polish General Staff today:

To the north-east of Vilna, Polish detachments, under strong pressure by the Bolsheviks, fell back south of the river Viliya. The Bolsheviks have occupied Michaliszki. A strong Bolshevik force after heavy fighting has occupied Melodecdeno and is continuing to attack along the Vilna-Melodecdeno railway.

The Bolsheviks have reached the Skorgani-Listopanow line, on which front heavy fighting is now in progress. Attacks have been repulsed by Lithuanian detachments to the east of the Komdjanow-Slutsk line.

ACCORDING TO PLAN

The Polish withdrawal is being carried out according to plan. An armored train, making a reconnaissance on the Lunine-Sarny railway dispersed a Bolshevik detachment and the crew captured a large quantity of booty.

After a heroic defense the Polish garrison evacuated Dubno today and retired to the west and south. Violent Bolshevik attacks on Kazomentz have been repulsed by the 18th Infantry Division.

Energetic Bolshevik attacks on other sectors were repulsed and the Polish forces captured 3 machine guns, 1,000 rifles and numbers of prisoners. Detachments of the Ukrainian Army have repulsed Bolshevik attacks in Podolia.

LITHUANIA DEFLECTS

London, July 13.—A telegram from Warsaw states that according to a report from Rovno, Lithuania is negotiating with the Soviet Government and is mobilising several classes. It is possible that the Poles, in consequence of this action, will be compelled to withdraw from the region to the south of Dvinsk, thus opening up the road into East Prussia.

FIGHT NEAR MINSK

Warsaw, July 13.—A communique issued here today admits the loss of Minsk by the Poles but adds, "Fighting continues south and southeast of Minsk.

"The 66th Bolshevik regiment, operating in the Polish rear, has been completely annihilated. In the Rovno section the enemy is inactive, as a result of his defeat on July 10."

London, July 13.—According to a despatch from Spa, it is authoritatively asserted there that Mr. Lloyd George has received a message from the Bolsheviks accepting the Allied proposals for an armistice. The statement lacks confirmation.

policy in Ireland, 700 railwaymen had been suspended or dismissed.

The railwaymen's resolution was adopted by 1,953,000 votes to 1,759,000.

An amendment submitted by the Post-Office Union demanding withdrawal of the army of occupation and immediate application of the principle of self-determination was negatived by 2,676,000 votes to 1,916,000.

A resolution proposed by the Miners' Federation demanding withdrawal of the British troops from Ireland, and the cessation of the provision of munitions against Ireland and Russia, otherwise a ballot should be taken on a down-tooled policy was adopted by 2,769,000 votes to 1,636,000.

ASK QUICK ACTION

An addendum to the above proposed by the Locomotive Engineers' Society in favor of an immediate ballot on the question of a general strike in the event of the Government refusing to withdraw the troops from Ireland was overwhelmingly rejected.

FANS PRAYING FOR FAIR SKIES

With California Glee Club Arriving Today All Depends On Weather Man

The inclement weather again put a stop to the Shanghai baseball club's preparations for the big series beginning Sunday next with the University of California Glee Club. It was too wet for the team to practice yesterday and the players are hoping that the grounds will permit them to get a short practice this afternoon.

The Glee Club if they arrive early enough will also practice today, weather permitting.

The management wishes to announce that all spectators who attend the games of this series must be members of the Baseball Association. No person will be permitted to go into the stands unless he has joined the organisation. The Club will be put to considerable expense in providing this series for the amusement of the fans and they rightly expect support.

Three games will be played as originally announced, Sunday, Tuesday and Thursday of next week being the days on which games will be played.

WIRELESS RECEIVED

A wireless from the s.s. Korea Maru reports that the ball tossers of the University of California Glee Club have already lost a dozen baseballs overboard, practicing for the three-game series with the Shanghai Club. The musician diamond artists have not had much practice lately, chiefly because of wet grounds during their entire stay in the Philippines. They expect to limber up tomorrow morning, however, in order to be in shape for the fracas in the afternoon.

The collegians have a pair of stars in their infield. Dave Phenning at second, and Charlie Strickfaden on third were mainstays of the U.C. freshman grounder-gobblers during the past season. Both were awarded their numerals for service against the Stanford babes.

The ball player-musicians arrive tonight, according to steamship officials.

POLO MATCH

A water polo match between two teams chosen and captained by Messrs. R. W. MacCabe and H. O. Wallin, respectively, brought the program to a close, Mr. W. Jones, Captain of the Police Swimming Club, who has recently returned from his vacation in his native Antipodes, refereed the game. Wallin scored four times for his side, twice in each half, Brodie also scored for Whites in the first half—while the solitary goal netted by Blues was obtained by Goldman in the second half. When the whistle went at the end of the opening moiety Whites led by 3 goals to nil. At the end of the second period the score was:

Whites .....5 goals
Blues .....1 goal

Play was rather more even than the final score would represent. Blues erred rather on the side of not feeding their forwards, the backs, all of them, essaying too many individual efforts from far off. The losers were not at all satisfied with the result of the game and both captains have agreed to replay the same teams at an early date. Begg was very sporting in consenting to make up the teams, at a time when only thirteen names had been received, and it is expected that with a little practice he will put up quite a good game between the posts, if he can arrange to play next time.

The sides were:

Whites: Krygsman (goal), L. Bertes and A. K. Brown (backs), R. A. Berthet (½-back), H. O. Wallin, E. A. Brodie and G. H. Bell (forwards).

Blues: Begg (goal), D. H. Cooke and L. D. Macdonald (backs), R. W. MacCabe (½-back), J. B. Brown, A. P. Goldman and E. Buss (forwards).

Cricket

A cricket match between the S.R.C. 2nd XI. v. Customs C. C. will be played on the S.R.C. grounds, weather permitting, at 2 p.m. sharp. The following will play for the "Recs":

J. V. Jansen, H. F. Landers, A. Madar, G. Madar, F. O. Madar, F. C. B. Ollerdessen, C. F. Powers, L. P. Quincey, F. Tomlinson, T. H. Youngson and H. J. Ambrose (Capt.).

Reserve: A. Ferguson.

DON'T THROW MONEY AWAY

on large, harsh and habit-forming cathartic pills, or on disagreeable saline purgatives, when you can obtain the famous little gentle-as-nature laxatives, Pinkettes, at every drug store. Strong purgatives hurt and harm, the temporary relief they give being usually followed by worse constipation than before. Pinkettes, on the contrary, leave no after ill-effects. They dispel constipation, are an ideal remedy for biliousness, sick headaches, torpid liver, coated tongue, foul breath, pimples and bad complexion. From chemists, or post free, 60 cents the vial, from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai.

RAILWAY WORKERS DECLARE STRIKE; RAISE IS GRANTED

Except for the shoemakers and a comparatively small number of dockyard workers who are still on strike the labor situation in Shanghai showed a decided improvement yesterday when it was announced that after a few hours walk-out the brass-smiths and fitters at the workshops on the Shanghai-Nanking railway had returned to work. A compromise was reached on a demand for an increase of 30 percent in wages. Three hundred men were involved.

There are 1,000 makers of Chinese shoes involved in the shoemakers strike. They ask 50 percent increase in wages.

The striking workers of the Shanghai Dock & Engineering Company number 400 men. This is only a partial strike and affects the Pootung works alone. They have asked an increase of 10 cents a day which amounts to an increase of about 30 percent.

Leyland Hodgson Review

Leyland Hodgson and his company threw revue to the winds last night and treated the audience to "Variety Tit-Bits," and the result was a most enjoyable evening for everyone present.

One of the most pleasant features of the production was the snap with which turn followed turn, and also with which each number was presented.

Had Mr. Leyland Hodgson opened up with "Variety Tit-Bits," and thus given the local playgoer a idea of the amount of talent he had in his company, I fancy that the houses would have been much bigger.

All too little has been heard of Mr. Chris Botly, who last night had a number of fine songs, and showed that he possesses an excellent voice which he knows how to use.

Mr. Percy Baverstock was heard to advantage in a couple of neat little monologues. They proved very acceptable. Leyland Hodgson and Jack Gordon had numbers that gave them plenty of opportunities to shine, and they took full advantage of them. They had a song and dance which was splendidly received, and it well deserved the applause.

All through the company's short season Miss Florence Harrington has been a worker, and last night she again put any amount of vim into her "Variety Tit Bits." She sings well.

Miss Helen Suttie and Miss Kitty Desmond were both well in the picture.

Tonight "Variety Tit Bits" will be repeated, and can be recommended as an enjoyable evening's entertainment.

DOMINO.

ROBBERS ARE SENTENCED TO TERMS IN JAIL

"Treat Them Kindly," Says Court When Prisoner Makes Chin Chin

After he made a chin chin to the bench and begged that he be saved from going back to jail where "the detectives would flay him alive," a robber convicted in the Mixed Court yesterday was sentenced by American Assessor Tenney to five years imprisonment. He was represented by counsel. A comrade, who was unrepresented but made a straightforward admission of his guilt without any plea for special consideration, escaped with a four year's sentence.

When the first accused made his pretense of fright at the prospect of police treatment, the assessor, who had shown his annoyance at the evident untruth of the defendant's testimony, turned with a quizzical smile to Detective Sergeant J. J. Kilkenney and remarked:

"You will treat them kindly, won't you?"

HANDCUFFED MAN, HELD AS SLAYER, ELUDES OFFICER

Tong-hai Officer Reports Escape Of Prisoner At Railway Office

Eluding a police officer from Tong-hai, a Chinese accused of murder made his escape in the crowds at the booking office of the Shanghai and Nanking Railway Thursday night and was vainly sought yesterday by the International Police. The escaped prisoner was handcuffed when he made his break for liberty.

The accused man disappeared from Tong-hai soon after the murder was committed and was traced to Shanghai. He was apprehended here and held for the arrival of an officer to take him back for trial. The officer arrived and the prisoner was delivered.

All went well until the officer and his charge arrived at the railway station. Then there was some delay in connection with the purchase of tickets. The crowd was dense and the policeman had little opportunity to watch his charge as carefully as he would have done under other circumstances and the man was able to slip away.

At a late hour last night he had not been apprehended.

Cotton Market

Messrs. J. Spunt and Co. write as follows in their report dated July 17:

China Cotton.—The market during the past week may be said to have been more or less stagnant with but very little business done in spots and evincing hardly any encouragement for forward deliveries of the new season crop. Prices, however, have so far continued unchanged and there appears to be no bearish tendency as the balance in the interior marts and locally of the 1919-1920 crop is practically nearing exhaustion.

Reports on the new crop situation continue favorable with the exception of those from the Chihli Districts. The Yarn market indicates an appreciative reaction. Prices in Mid-Americans have risen considerably owing to adverse reports on the crop situation there. So that when taking into consideration the various factors which more or less affect the rates on this, one of the most important staples, one is induced to adopt a more vigilant policy by absorbing all offerings at moderate figures in providing for immediate and near future requirements. Tone of the market Steady.

China's Import Trade

CIVIL war, misrule, military oppression and wholesale graft! All these combined have not served to halt the onward march of Chinese trade. We have just received from the Maritime Customs an analysis of China's import trade of 1919 and this shows that last year was a record breaker in more ways than one.

In the first place the net total value of goods imported in 1919 was Hk. Tls. 646,997,681, the biggest total in the history of China's trade with foreign nations. This represented a gain of Tls. 92,000,000 over the year 1918, also the largest increase the country has known and while there is no doubt that the showing is due in large part to the favorable state of exchange, the figures furnish good reason for congratulations to all concerned in the trade. Further they give one an idea of what the trade eventually will be when peace has been restored and a stable government established.

The figures of first interest probably are those dealing with the trade of Japan. Notwithstanding the boycott we have heard so much about, China bought more goods from Japan last year than ever before. In 1917 Japan sold to China Tls. 221,000,000 worth of goods; in 1918 the figures were Tls. 239,000,000 and last year they were Tls. 247,000,000. How do the Chinese students and the other patriotic organisations that have been promoting the boycott against Japan account for these figures?

Hongkong comes second in trade with China with Tls. 153,631,000 last year, a drop of about Tls. 9,000,000, from 1918.

The United States made the best showing of all. That country sold goods to China in 1917 that totalled Tls. 61,000,000 in value. In the following year the total was Tls. 58,686,000. Last year the total was Tls. 110,236,000, a jump of almost 100 percent.

Great Britain's total jumped from Tls. 50,000,000 in 1918 to Tls. 64,000,000 last year, but probably a very large additional trade is covered in the Hongkong figures.

Canada recorded a splendid increase. In 1918 she sold goods to China worth Tls. 10,000,000; last year the total was Tls. 13,887,000.

France jumped from Tls. 1,500,000 to Tls. 3,375,000.

British India which slumped from Tls. 27,000,000 in 1917 to Tls. 8,000,000 in 1918, again shows Tls. 27,000,000, a complete recovery.

Italy jumped from Tls. 356,000 in 1918 to Tls. 991,000 last year, a very healthy sign.

Germany which drew blanks in 1917 and 1918 made a new start last year, with a whacking total of Tls. 368,

Among the customs districts, Shanghai not only continues to hold front rank, but tends to make her premier position more secure. The total imports here jumped from Tls. 215,060,000 in 1918 to Tls. 261,000,000 last year.

Dairen stands second, increasing from Tls. 67,000,000 to Tls. 89,500,000. Tientsin is third, going from Tls. 59,000,000 to Tls. 64,000,000. Hankow is fourth going from Tls. 31,000,000 to Tls. 37,458,000.

FRAGMENTS

"I have read a great deal of late about its being unlucky to marry in May; but getting married is becoming as easy an hobby as dancing and it is not nearly as complicated.

"It is a funny game after all. Before marriage life is one long dream while you are courting—and then marriage comes along and there you are. The alarm clock lands you on the jaw about seven a.m. just to let you know that the fight is on!"

* * *

"Before marriage your 'fiasco' sits up half the night waiting for you to go home. After marriage she waits up half the night for you to come home. I know when I was courting, my father-in-law did not so much mind my staying late of nights saying 'Good Night'; but what he did object to was the habit I developed of taking the morning paper away with me!"

"Things are different in America. Over there people seldom marry until they are divorced. And so it is not surprising to read, recently, about that New York man who married twenty-five wives and boasted of them.

"Twenty-five times that smooth-tongued son of Columbus promised to cherish and endow with all his worldly goods. May the shades of Abraham Lincoln smile upon this matrimonial wholesaler!

Fragments from 'Ole Bills Letters.

At a recent meeting at which "ladies only" were admitted, one speaker thought that "dress was the visible expression of the feelings of the inner soul."

Now that explains a lot:

Henceforth nevermore will I dare to deplore
The constant expense of my Mary's
Attempts to keep pace in a strenuous race
With fashions unending vagaries.
And why—
It seems I've been wrong to suppose all along
'Twas a whim that dictated these dealings;
They are really the way she selects to display
Her soul and its innermost feelings.

So, despite the correspondence in one of the contemporary morning papers, about lap dogs and flappers, there is really no mystery about it at all.

You can read a woman like a book. Look at her dress, or as much as you can see of it and:

From the dress that she wears you may diagnose cares,
Her grief or her joy about 'Lappy';
Wrath; rapture; regret; and the flapper—you bet,
When bobbed will be dressed with smiles happy.
And apply this to mere man:
'Tis an excellent plan, which I fancy a man
Might find to be worth imitation.
When I've saved up the tin, I'm resolved to go in
For an orgy of self revelation—

A creation in tweed will be all that I need
To follow the fashions and Jay-Laws—
But I must want to show my economy—so
I won't go to Whitealaid—Waylaws.

ANNO DOMINI?

"The delegate is without," announced the ancient secretary, as he hobbled into the Council Chamber.

The chairman stirred fretfully in his chair, and the cobwebs which had festooned about his person since the commencement of the session, parted with a snap.

The members of the Council stirred fretfully in their chairs, blinking as the dust arose from their mildewed garments, and viewing uninterestedly the scared cockroaches which were scurrying away to their lairs.

"Show him in," quavered the chairman.

The delegate bowed low, and forthwith proceeded to unroll the parchment which he carried. Sunk deep in their chairs, the Councillors heard, as in a dream, the words that were spoken:

"An agreement made between the Republic.....and the Council.....this....day of July, one thousand nine hundred and twenty .... witnesseth..that in the year 1950, the date set for the abolition of the state of extra-territoriality, as now existing, the parties of the second part.....agree to deliver to the parties of the first part.....the structure, now in course of erection, known as the 'New Council Building,' should the said building be completed by the date afore-mentioned....for the sum of....."

"All is in order," piped the chairman. "Shall we sign, gentlemen?"

"Aye, Aye!" quavered the ancients gathered round the council table.

The sun began to sink below the horizon; from the shelter of the ancient headgear hanging on the wall, the bats sped forth to their evening flittings; and there was silence once more in the council chamber.

Allies Must Back German Ministry

The results of the German election, about which Mr. Gardiner, formerly editor of the Liberal Daily News, is writing in anticipation, are already known. Despite their loss of fifty-three seats, the Social Democrats are still the leading party in the Reichstag. Other coalition parties—namely, the Democrats and Centrists, lost thirty seats and four seats, respectively, while the opposition—namely, the Independent Socialists, the German People's Party and the Nationalists, gained fifty-eight seats, thirty-eight seats, thirty-nine seats and twenty-three seats, respectively.

BY A. G. GARDINER

(Formerly Editor of the London Daily News)

Dresden, May 22.—It is probable that before this article appears the result of the German election, which takes place on June 6, will be known. In one sense it is known beforehand. I find among men of all parties complete agreement as to the probable general result. It is assumed that the present Government will survive in a much weakened condition. It will lose to the left and to the right. The forces of reaction and of revolution will be strengthened at the expense of the moderate, compromising groups which at present control the Government.

There are seven political groups in all, which correspond roughly to English parties, as follows:

National Party .....Conservative.
German People's Party,
Coalition Liberals
Center Party (Catholic),
No English equivalent
Social Democrats,
Parliamentary Labor Party
Independents .....I. L. P.
Communists .....Extreme Labor
Democratic Party,
Independent Liberals

ONE COALITION POSSIBLE

The spirit of Government, therefore, can best be understood in the terms of an English Liberal-Labor coalition, qualified by a clerical infusion for which we have no equivalent. It represents the only coalition that can keep Parliamentary government in being. If the center of gravity shifted to the right, the power would pass to representatives of the old regime, who would govern by repression; if it shifted to the left the Parliamentary system would hardly survive the shock.

It must be remembered that Parliamentary rule in Germany has none of the prestige that attaches to it in England, where it has been the slow and ordered growth of centuries. Responsible government did not exist under the old regime. Kaiserism was personal rule exercised through the Army; Parliament was simply the disguise behind which the reality of despotism functioned; but though only a disguise, it shared in the discredit which attended the collapse of the autocracy. It is attacked from both sides.

The reactionaries fear it as the instrument of popular sovereignty; the revolutionaries distrust it because in the past it has existed helplessly as the handmaid of military despotism. Such faith as there is in the Parliamentary institution is found in the three parties which form the Government, and if Parliamentarism pulls through it will be through these parties.

INHERITS THE BURDENS

But the issue is still in doubt, and it depends more upon events outside Germany than upon events within. No Government can hope to be popular in such conditions as those which prevail in the country at present. It inherits the enormous disaster of the war and the responsibility for all the miseries, privations and burdens that have followed in the train of the war—the cost of living, the insufficiency of food, the prevalence of profiteering, the heavy hand of the tax collector. I have already indicated how heavy that hand is—a capital levy, graduated up to 60 percent. on all fortunes, an income tax up to 65 percent, the appropriation of all war fortunes above £7,000.

It is an heroic attempt to recover national solvency which may be commended to other nations and entitles the Government to the respect of the world if not to the affection of the taxpayer. A universal eight-hour day has been established with results upon production which have yet to be disclosed, and all the State railways have been unified under one control for the whole Republic. As this embitters the rich without placating the poor, who estimate the Government by the fact that they are still on half rations of bread and potatoes.

It is, however, the isolation of the Government that is its chief weakness. So long as it is kept at arm's length by the Allies and treated as an enemy instead of as a debtor it cannot hope to establish its authority firmly against the hostile forces that envelop it at home. It must be able to show that it has the respect of the world before it can command the respect and confidence of its own people. In a word, if ordered government is to be maintained in Germany and if a violent swing to militarism or revolutionary extremism is to be avoided it is for the Allies to give that moral support to the present moderate administration which can alone keep it in being.

HONEST AND WELL-MEANING

It is not a strong Government, but it is an honest and well-meaning one. There is no dominating personality in it; but that is because there are no dominating personalities in the political life of Germany at all. The old regime did not allow them to develop. Statesmanship was an affair of a narrow Court class, a sort of bodyguard of the Kaiser, which owed no loyalty to the public and little respect to Parliament. As a result, when Kaiserism collapsed the only experienced governing element in Germany disappeared with it, and responsible government came into being without any tradition behind it and without any instructed statesmanship to give it direction and impetus.

In the circumstances it has done better than could have been reasonably expected. The heads of the Ministry are plain, serious, unassuming men, chiefly belonging to the Democrats and the Social Democrats (Majority Socialist.) Herr Mueller, the Chancellor, a stalwart bourgeois figure from Manpheim, is reminiscent of General Botha in appearance and manner. He has the same tranquil bearing, and the same direct and candid eye. Herr Koester, the Foreign Minister, who was formerly a journalist, is, I should say, less at home with the new burden thrust upon him. Herr Gessler, the War Minister, looks like a prosperous farmer or merchant, and Herr Wirth, the Finance Minister, suggests the competent barrister.

NO DIPLOMATIC SUBTLETY

None of them has a hint of the diplomatic subtlety and cunning that used to pervade the Wilhelmstrasse. They are just ordinary, plain citizens who are doing their best to keep the boat in midstream.

The most formidable attack comes from the left. I have said that the Independents correspond to our (English) I. L. P. (Independent Labor Party) but that is not quite exact. At a recent conference at Glasgow the I. L. P. declared against the Soviet system, and took its stand by Parliamentary Government. The Independents, on the other hand, are strongly infected with the Council government idea and the rule of the proletariat. The more moderate spirits of the party, like Edward Bernstein, have long broken with it, and become its most implacable opponents and Herr Kantsky is more than suspected by the extremists of the party, who approximate to the Communists.

With the distracted and impoverished condition of the country, it is natural that the Independents should be in the ascendant and that Majority Socialists who share the responsibility of Government should lose heavily to them, just, as, at the other extreme, the Democrats lose to the People's Party, which is the old National Liberal Party of the "heavy industries" and big money interests under a new disguise. On the extreme left the Communist are frankly out for complete social disruption. To achieve this they are even trafficking with the militarist faction, each hoping to use the other to destroy Parliamentary Government and, having done that, to cut the throat of its accomplice. For the most part the Communists are a physical force party, who totally ignore parliament and the election and rely on disorder to accomplish the overthrow of representative government.

The strength of the reactionaries is in the countryside. A formidable spirit of hostility has sprung up between the rural population and the towns. The former have done very well out of the war. They have had food, they have made handsome profits, they have been able to exploit the agonies of the industrial communities to their own advantage, they have been hand-in-glove with the "Schieber" class, and having wronged the town workers they look on them as their natural enemies.

But while the great landowner and the peasant farmer remain the stronghold of reaction, the laborer is becoming infected with the spirit of the town. In Pomerania I heard the most extravagant fears expressed as to the progress of the Independent propaganda among the laborers, who are being appealed to by the promise of the break-up of the great estates.

SOME OTHER FACTORS

Two other factors in the political outlook deserve attention. The first is in the attitude of the universities. I was told they had everywhere become intensely reactionary and even militarist. I think the matter is exaggerated. I found both at Berlin University and at Leipzig University strong Liberal elements both among the professors and the students. But it is true that the overwhelming preponderance of feeling is reactionary. The fact is due to many causes. A large number of the students have been in the army as officers, and hanker for the old liberty and authority. Then the men for the most part come from the official class that had a good time under the old regime, and wants to have that good time again.

And a third reason is the cost of living, which has hit the student as severely as any one. Formerly he could live and study on £1 a week; now bare existence costs £6 or £7 and for large numbers of them self-maintenance is impossible. They are suffering great privations everywhere, and in most cases, as at Bonn, many of them actually exist by means of soup kitchens. These conditions naturally affect their political thought. But I agree with Prof. Goerz of Leipzig that the university reaction has no serious significance in regard to the larger political tendencies of the country.

THE SEPARATIST MOVEMENT

The other point relates to the question of German unity. There has been much talk of a Separatist movement in Bavaria, and Dr. Heim the leader of the Bavarian clericals, has dreamed of a southern Catholic confederacy, which would include Austria—a dream with which French policy has been in sympathy as a means of dismembering the empire. The idea, however, has been emphatically rejected in Wuerttemburg and Baden, and no one regards separation as a real menace.

The interests of Bavaria itself are too much involved with those of Germany generally—in the matter of coal and cereals, for example—to make a Separatist movement a living issue. As a matter of fact, German unity is likely in many respects to be more consolidated under the republic than it was under the old system of many monarchies held together by the domination of Prussian militarism.

But so far as the external world is concerned, the capital political consideration is whether the spirit of militarism is dead in Germany. With that question I shall deal in a later article.

Ireland's Fight For Freedom

BY GEORGE CREEL

(Published by Harper and Brothers, New York; reviewed for The China Press By Mr. E. P. Graham Barrow)

George Creel dedicates his book "Ireland's Fight for Freedom" to his wife Blanche Bates Creel, "who has long begged me to give up controversy in favor of nice, unargumentative things like books." He obeys his wife by writing upon a "nice, unargumentative thing" like Ireland.

His book is interesting, and it is just as irritating. George Creel will never make a historian. He looks at the Irish question with the eyes of an Irishman who has never seen the Emerald Isle but who has been brought up to think of England as the oppressor supreme. In order to make out a good case for De Valera and his followers Creel will often strain at the fictional gnat and swallow the camel of truth. He often finds the truth so indigestible that he throws it overboard, like the traveler upon storm tossed waters.

Creel's English History is at times very much at sea. If Edward III ought to come after the Henrys IV, V, and VI, then he gaily puts him there. If Elizabeth suits his purpose by ascending the throne years before she actually did, why then let her ascend. On page 63 of the book it says "In 1534, under the leadership of the Geraldines these nobles defied the power of Henry VII. . . ." And this mind you was an easy thing to do since Henry VII had been dead since 1509. But what is a year or two when it comes to proving "England the Oppressor."

Creel has plenty of punch about his writing and has the trick of making things look to others as they look to him. But things as they look to him are probably not always right, and therefore it is possible that his book will meet with great success with all those who do not like England, and will not have so favorable a reception from those who take the trouble to think.

He will not have it that Ireland has been in the wrong at all. The wrongdoer has always been England and yet today there are many Irishmen, and I amongst them, who would do a lot, and give a lot, to undo some of the havoc that the unthinking few have done to besmirch Ireland's good name. In the late war for "Right and Justice," (I quote the words rattled out by an Irish orator that I heard in New York last year) Irish regiment after Irish regiment went bravely with their English and Scottish brothers to the death. At Gallipoli they won themselves immortal fame, as they have done on many another battlefield in defense of the Empire, and yet there were those who did their level best to defeat the cause of "Right and Justice" by either staying at home and stirring up strife, or sailing over to America to evade their obvious duties and to gather dollars for an "Irish Republic." Ireland has made her mistakes. England has made her mistakes as well. Read G. K. Chesterton on the Irish question. He is sane, clear, logical and fair. He sympathises with Ireland, he condemns England in her mistakes but he is Imperial and nothing must touch the British Empire.

And yet Creel won't see any faults in Ireland. How does Creel tackle the Casement question? Casement has been sick, he has been persecuted, he has been hunted, and his troubles have turned his brain. That is why he was a traitor. This is the logic to be found in the book.

Carson of Ulster is no favorite with Creel. Bonar Law, Lloyd George and Balfour are out for what they can get in Ireland. King George, he pictures as possessed of Hanoverian stubbornness.

It has always been Ulster that has led the movements against England, says Creel. Ulster has been the seat of revolution. And mark it, there is no real religious or racial difference in Ireland. The one chapter that has been really well conceived is that in which the writer deals with the question "Can Ireland stand alone." Putting aside the parts of the chapter which accuse England of killing every industry that Ireland ever had, Creel does give an excellent picture of what Ireland might be if she were developed.

Listen: "English Conquest is seen to be a thing that has ravaged and destroyed, depopulated and impoverished, decimated and exiled; English rule stands revealed as cruel and predatory, false and unscrupulous, no matter what the king or what the queen; always killing, banishing, or extirpating, enforcing ignorance, crushing industry, inducing famine; always filching, bleeding, squeezing, extoring, until the tax gatherer's way is as black with the anathema of despair as in days when Joseph and Mary cried out against the rapacity of Rome."

This is the stuff that Creel would solve Ireland's problems with. It is poor propaganda.

STRANDED SEAMEN

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Dear Sir.—Arising early as has been my habit of a lifetime I have observed a condition in Shanghai that deserves public attention. In my morning strolls I have had occasion several times to pass the grass plot on the Bund foreshore and have seen there as many as fifteen stranded seamen sleeping on the grass because they had no place in which they could find shelter.

In every port in the world seamen are to be found "on the beach" but this is about the only one I have heard of where an American sailor could not find shelter when in hard luck.

It must be understood that the men to whom I refer are not "beachcombers." They are the ordinary type of seamen and are simply in straightened circumstances for the present. Men of their type deserve consideration and aid of the community that could not be expected for the typical beachcomber.

JAPANESE CONSUL-GENERAL ISSUES DENIAL

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Dear Sir.—Rumors have been current to the effect that Japan is rendering every assistance to the Anhui faction in the present political strife, that Japanese military officers are participating in the operations of the Frontier Defense Army, that Japan has advanced money under various pretexts, that arms and ammunition have been supplied by Japan, etc., etc. I wish to record the most emphatic denial of these allegations. It is true that there were a number of Japanese officers and non-commissioned officers who were engaged as tutors in the Military School of the Frontier Defense Army. But these officers have no connection whatever with the command of the said army. Besides, to avoid any possible misunderstanding, all of them withdrew from the School when the political crisis occurred. I am, Your obedient servant,

K. YAMASAKI.
Consul-General of Japan.

It is the most durable of all decorations, lasting for years with freshness unimpaired, whereas wall-papers deteriorate from the first day by fading and accumulating dust and dirt.

Hall's Distemper is a thorough disinfectant, and is applied directly upon the wall, forming a hard surface, from which dust and dirt may be "spring-cleaned" by lightly sponging with warm water.

Film Fun In The Flat For The Kids

BY JAMES J. MONTAGUE

We soon wearied of the little circular films that came with our boy's sized moving picture projector.

There was the horse that trotted up to a hurdle and, lifting his fore feet in the air, like a dog begging, leaped over it, much as a saw horse would have done. The picture wasn't inspiring, even when it possessed the element of surprise. After he knew exactly what was going to happen, even the baby wouldn't look at it.

We tried to introduce a little variety by slowing up the film. That was interesting for a time. The horse would appear to be wafted into the air by a gentle zephyr. He would hang suspended over the hurdle, like an actor in a pantomime, and then alight on the other side like a butterfly, giving his hind legs a slow, dignified kick as he did so. When constant use staled the freshness of this variant, we ran the film backward.

There is an inevitableness about a film that saddens the heart. You wait expectantly each time for something different to happen. It never does. The man turning the handspring never altered the position of his feet when they left the ground or when they resumed it. The fellow's absolute lack of originality was depressing.

We had about decided to shelve the projector and charge the money we had invested in it up to life's little disappointments, when we happened to meet a moving-picture manufacturer on the train.

"Don't can the projector," he said cheerfully, "I'll send you some films for it—some live ones."

This, of course, was great news. We took it home and distributed it around the family with gratifying results.

We invited in the neighbors, cleaned up the projector, hung up a sheet in the dining room and unpacked the films, feeling much as Columbus might have felt when he spread the sail of his little caravel on a voyage to a strange and beautiful new world.

The result was instantly gratifying. There were no titles nor subtitles to tell what the picture was about, but none were needed. A man in a silk hat dashed on the scene, pursued by a large and apparently very irritable bear.

The bear gained on the man for several feet of film. Then the man came to a tree, which he ascended with more agility than you would expect from the kind of a man who would wear a silk hat.

The bear reached the foot of the tree, gave a nasty look toward the branches, where the feet of ilkhatted man were being gathered up after him, and began to climb. Then followed a scene well up in the tree, with the man swaying on a limb and the bear, open-mouthed, swarming up after him. Then there was a click in the camera. The film had run out.

We hunted frantically through the box for the rest of it. But there wasn't any rest of it. We did not know, and shall probably never know, whether the bear munched the man, throwing his clothing to the ground as a monkey throws down the husk of a cocoanut, or whether an aeroplane came by and rescued the victim. We are betting against the latter contingency, as aeroplanes and bears do not mix much in the same localities. But alas! there is nobody to decide our bet.

The next film was like the first. A locomotive was approaching a hero who was securely lashed to the rails. At a little distance a heroine with a carving knife in her hands was speeding to set the hero free. But before either she or the locomotive arrived the film gave out and left us in an ecstasy of disappointment.

Another search through the box availed us nothing. All the films were like that. They just got you excited and interested when they coldly quit on you. The manufacturer had given us only remnants and there were remnants of plays that had been given up at rehearsal so long ago that even the scenario writer would not remember what happened.

We aren't using the projector any more. A man has only so many nerves in his body, and when half a score of these snap every night, he will soon be ready for the nutsmith. Any one wanting these fragmentary films can have them.

Singing In The Bathroom

An impulse that apparently is familiar to many people, to burst into song when in a bathroom, is explained by a British scientist as being an induced effect of the music of running water, which virtually sounds the pitch for the occupant of the tub. The resonance of the room encourages the effort, giving an unaccustomed quality to the voice, says Popular Mechanics. In other rooms the furnishings break up the vibrations and deaden the tone, making the contrast quite conspicuous.

Starvation For Diabetes Is Condemned

Condemnation of the classic starvation treatment of diabetes is the feature of an article by Dr. Thomas W. Edgar in the New York Medical Journal. Dr. Edgar says that patients have been taught to dread sugar until the slightest evidence of it causes them the greatest mental agony and starvation is much more acceptable than sugar.

"I have one patient," he writes, "who existed for one year on two eggs, three leaves of lettuce, three slices of bacon with eight ounces of alcohol daily, and she taught school five days a week. She wondered why she was losing weight and becoming weaker."

As a result of his personal observation he calls starvation a dangerous procedure which should never be indulged without the supervision of a competent physician. For it results in such weakness that the patient is prone to take any infection, his system has lost its power of tolerance and so rebels instantly against the slightest indiscretion in diet.

According to Dr. Edgar, it is the saturation of the body with the lower fatty acids that result from the faulty oxidation of carbohydrates and proteids which causes the coma and death of diabetics. He considers it more important to keep the body well nourished than to keep it free from sugar, provided always the saturation point for fatty acids be not exceeded. This point can only be known by testing each individual. For neutralising acid, he believes in administering bicarbonate of soda in just the right doses.

He insists that a diabetic patient who is losing weight regardless of his sugar content is going downhill, while one who is either gaining or holding his weight is at least in no danger of death from acidois. Therefore he urges that the quantity of carbohydrate a patient can assimilate without producing an excess of sugar is the quantity he should eat.

Dr. Edgar has produced a serum from the blood of rabbits which has undergone a series of maneuvers planned to increase the action of certain internal secretary glands, and with this he has increased the carbohydrate tolerance of some of his patients from 25 to 60 percent, in some cases absolutely arresting the disease.

What To Do For Fever Baldness

After a serious disease such as typhoid fever it is common for the hair to fall out. In most cases it will grow again, but in those predisposed to baldness it may never reappear. Dr. Charles Greene Cumston of Geneva, Switzerland, sent to the New York Medical Journal the treatment recommended by Thibiorge in such cases, which is as follows:

The scalp should be washed with a small brush, using one of the following formulas:

Liq. ammon	2 to 5 c. c.
Sol. cresoli comp.	aa 15 c. c.
Alcohol, camphorat.	aa 15 c. c.
Alcohol, 60 degrees	40 c. c.
Acid, acetic	1 c. c.
Tinct. capsici	aa 15 c. c.
Bals. fiovarenti	aa 15 c. c.
Spt. lavandulae	70 c. c.
Quinin hydrochlor	1 gram
Tinct. jaborandi	20 c. c.
Liq. Hoffmann	80 c. c.
Ess. verbenae	q. s.

The general treatment of the patient must not be overlooked, and the following may be prescribed:

Sodii methylarsinae	.50 cgm.
Aq. dest	100 c. c.

S.: A teaspoonful before the two principal meals.

Sodii arseniat	4 cgm.
Strychnine sulph	6 cgm.
Vini hispan	300 c. c.

S.: A teaspoonful in a little wine before the two principal meals.

But the most prudent course is to put one's self in the hands of a reliable scalp specialist and not to attempt home treatment.

Radium Within Reach Of All

The Radium Institute of England is meeting the scarcity of and growing demand for radium by making weak solutions which give off emanations that can be detected only by delicate instruments. These solutions can be had in tiny glass phials, corked, and it is said that they are efficacious for one week.

WHY

Purity

BECAUSE

Absolutely the first and only American Boston made (not made in Shanghai) De Luxe ONYX Fountain, Silver mounted and positively sanitary—

BECAUSE

They are the only people who went to tremendous expense and secured the latest and ony large pulp and paper filter in Shanghai to Purify, Syphon, Carbonate and properly chill all waters used in the PURITY SHOP, so as to make it safe for you and your babies to drink.

BECAUSE

There is no greasy Kitchen mystery at the PURITY SHOP, everything you eat and drink is done in front of you by Five Americans who Know how to prepare, mix, clean and serve with real civility all in front of you.

Seeing is believing, try before you buy is the PURITY motto—
